The journal that I found for this research is the journal, "Natural Computing". I know that Dr. Hendricks has published in this journal before with papers in the field of self assembly. Self assembly is the field in which tile assembly, the topic I am doing research on, is a part of. There are two templates that are allowed for these journal. One is for Word and the other is for mathematical content using LaTeX. I plan to use the template for LaTeX as I am using LaTeX. The information on the latex template is found here:

https://www.springernature.com/gp/authors/campaigns/latex-author-support